

Professional Learning Community to Support Initiating Play and Learning Outdoors Antioch University New England CNE 575

Join a group of educators as together we learn new skills for playing and learning outside with students!

A 9-Session Professional Learning Community

Professional Learning Communities (PLC) are growing nationally as an effective way to share and gain knowledge as well as make lasting changes in practice. By signing up for this PLC, you commit to eight, two-hour sessions, and one Saturday half-day. Between meetings, you begin to implement what you learned in order to foster rich discussion and reflection within the group.

Each monthly PLC meeting will include:

- a light and nutritious meal.
- sharing of photos of outdoor work and play with students.
- suggested resources (books, articles, websites, etc.) to enhance discussions.
- commitments of change in practice related to educating students outdoors.
- reflection and support for changes in practice resulting in greater authentic nature play and learning for students.
